From dashboard reporting to an accounting operating system

The current information architecture is retained; density, control and workflow are rebuilt.

What changes

- 01

Task-first home
The dashboard leads with exceptions, approvals and close readiness - not oversized vanity cards.
- 02

Dense accounting workspaces
Tables, filters, drawers and evidence remain visible at realistic 13.5-inch scale.
- 03

Governed actions
Posting, matching, payment and close activities carry validation, ownership and maker-checker controls.
- 04

Consistent status language
Cobalt confirms completed states; amber signals pending work; red isolates exceptions.

Operating loop

- 1

Review control queue
- 2

Investigate exceptions
- 3

Complete maker-checker
- 4

Post to the ledger
- 5

Close with evidence

LOCKED DESIGN RULES

- White / pale blue-grey working canvas
- Midnight navy shell and cobalt actions
- Amber pending · red exceptions · no green states
- Compact layouts · tables before decorative charts

Visual language and interaction conventions

One coherent language across dashboards, ledgers, drawers, controls and approvals.
